THE ROYAL BRITISH LEGION PARIS BRANCH

The Royal British Legion Paris Branch was formed on the 14th May 1921, shortly before the creation of the British Legion in London. There were still ex-servicemen in France post WWI and The Paris Branch offered them the opportunity of comradeship and social activities. Then as time went on the Branch supplied help to those who had problems, some of them financial.

Nearly a hundred years later the Paris Branch is still very active with a vibrant community and is involved in prestigious commemorative events. The Royal British Legion in Paris, as in all Branches has two main aims: One is to help ex-service people and their families when in need, for example financial hardship; the second is to take part in the many commemorative events. The Branch is located near to the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, with various lively events held there every month.

Anyone who shares the purpose of the Charity in supporting the British Armed Forces community can join the Legion. All nationalities and ages are welcome.
